

The 19th Annual
ROSA PARKS LUNCHEON

Featured Keynote Speaker

Trymaine D. Lee '03

Pulitzer Prize and Emmy-winning journalist and “Into America” podcast host

February 27, 2024

11 a.m.–1 p.m.

Chamberlain Student Center
Eynon Ballroom | Glassboro, NJ

Trymaine D. Lee '03, host of the “Into America” podcast for NBC News and correspondent for MSNBC, will serve as the guest speaker for this year’s Rosa Parks Scholarship Luncheon.

Lee, who earned his bachelor’s degree in journalism, was on the 2006 Times-Picayune news team that won the Pulitzer Prize for its breaking news coverage of Hurricane Katrina. He also won an Emmy for his reporting on gun violence and trauma in Chicago as part of a series and hour-long special on MSNBC.

A past recipient of the Emerging Journalist of the Year award from the National Association of Black Journalists, Lee was a contributing writer to The New York Times Magazine’s “1619 Project.” He has reported for numerous local and national news outlets, including The New York Times and Huffington Post.

In his talk, Lee will discuss his personal story, as well as his experiences as a journalist and his forthcoming book on race, trauma and gun violence in America.

Tickets:

General Registration	$65
Student Registration	$50

To purchase tickets:
go.rowan.edu/RosaParks2024

For information:

Denise Williams
856-256-4818

Julie Peterson
856-256-4596